Participation in Morden United Nation (MUN)

November 2019 - November 2019

In 2019, I served as a delegate for Portugal at a three-day Model United Nations conference. Over the course of the event, I engaged in intense debates on critical global issues like climate change, human rights, and sustainable development. I passionately represented Portugal's positions, advocating for policies that emphasize environmental protection and social equity. This immersive experience honed my research and public speaking skills, while deepening my understanding of diplomacy and the importance of international cooperation.
